

Air conditioning for the Old Red Lion

Fixed Air Conditioning Units have been supplied to the Burnley-based Old Red Lion Pub by Purified Air, one of the UK's leading Air control specialists.

The Old Red Lion is managed by Thwaites Inns and owned by Daniel Thwaites PLC, the region's largest independent brewery, and the air conditioning was fitted as part of a complete refurbishment of the existing premises. The designers and contract furnishers for the Old Red Lion project were Rossett Design Contracts, a well established practice who specialise in the pub sector and deal with licensed houses.

The Old Red Lion is a town centre evening pub with a small disco area. Previously, in the summer months, because of the heat build up, people were fainting. The decision was therefore made to install air conditioning as part of the general refurbishment programme. Purified Air were nominated to supply and install the air conditioning by Rossett Design Contracts after winning a competitive tender.

Initially, Purified Air carried out a complete site survey of the Old Red Lion to ensure that the right number of air conditioners would be specified to cool the pub sufficiently, particularly the disco area. Three Fujitsu ceiling cassettes units were eventually installed and the result is a really cool and pleasant environment, irrespective of outside temperatures.

Purified Air are not only specifiers of Fujitsu Fixed Air Conditioning Systems, with whom they have a preferred supplier and installer status, but also manufacture a range of Air Purifiers which remove 98% of airborne impurities including tobacco smoke, dust, pollen and some viruses. The company is often involved in the supply and installation of complete air control schemes for many well known pub chains, restaurants and clubs.
